

For almost a century, France has been at the forefront of skincare and skincare ingredients. With an eye on the future, Anne Jensen chose France to develop the future of skincare. In all Anne Jensen skincare products, you'll find ingredients that are carefully sourced and processed with French expertise.

Naturally grown.

Natural grown is sustainably grown at every stage, traditionally grown methods respect the natural plants in the process plants in the process and produces the highest quality ingredients based on techniques used for generations.

Anne Jensen Diamond Skincare is between 84% to 100% natural ingredients.

Anne Jensen Diamond Skincare is a pure beauty range based on aqua marine botanical ingredients that soothe the skin and natural botanicals that help improve the skin.

Sustainable

If we really want the sustainable line, it's about the finest ingredients for the skincare itself and the most recyclable materials for the packaging.

And for skincare made from the finest ingredients, glass packaging is preferable, as it can be recycled. The purer the ingredients used in skincare, the harder it is to use plastic material packaging as they often end up becoming rancid.

The packaging is recyclable.

How they should be sorted depends on your country's way of recycling

Testing

Anne Jensen Diamond Skincare has documented test results on the products.

HYDRATION COLLECTION

Marine botanical algee such as Spirulina, Mastocarpus red seaweed, and brown seaweed alge is microalgae from the algae family.

They are richness in nutritive substances such as proteins, vitamins, A-E & K and minerals such as magnesium and potassim and trace elements confers anti-ageing properties fighting against the signs of time.

It helps in protecting and firming your skin, fighting off free radicals, and improving the overall appearance of your skin through detoxification and boosting collagen production, fight against dehydration the skin and stimulates its natural defenses.

Mixed with Marine spring water, drawn in Brittany in the center of Biotechnologie Marine de Soliance, is caught in a natural reservoir, constantly supplied in sea water.

It is then desalinized while preserving its unique properties.

Thanks to its richness in trace elements, the marine spring water limits the water losses and thus maintains the skin hydration.

DIAMOND LIFTING EFFECT COLLECTION

This line is a clever cocktail of expert active ingredients, endowed with complementary anti-aging properties: Argireline® with a botox-like effect on expression lines, a peptide that fights against photoaging, antioxidant vitamins, and moisturizing and revitalizing active ingredients. An ideal synergy to reveal a youthful-looking skin.

Biomimetic anti-aging active ingredient is a peptide (L-Carnosine) found in the human body that has the ability to boost the skin's natural defenses. It has remarkable anti-oxidant and anti-glycation properties. This allows it to actively protect the skin from sun damage (IR, UV, visible light) (in vivo test) and thus prevent photoaging.

It also protects against glycation (binding of sugars molecules to proteins) (in vitro test), which particularly affects elastin and collagen in the skin, resulting in their rigidification and the appearance of signs of aging.

Argireline Inspired by botox, this anti-aging active ingredient is a peptide complex that targets expression lines by reducing the contraction of the muscles that causes them. This botox-like active ingredient does not have the disadvantages of injections.
